When Moving Out

- You should be out of your home and the home should be cleaned the day before closing. This gives the buyers the opportunity to conduct their final walk through the day before closing.
- We recommend that you schedule movers for one day and airline flights the next. Too many things can go wrong on moving day, from movers showing up late or taking much longer to load your belongings onto the truck that you expected.
- We recommend you have someone clean your home for you once everything is gone.

Bring to the closing two forms of Government issued identification with photographs and your bank's wiring instructions for you to receive the proceeds from the sale.
